How to Use this Resource

The High School Career Portfolio is meant to be used in conjunction with the Career Success publication made by the Texas Workforce Commission. Each section of this document will match a section of the Career Success workbook with the same heading or title. Use this document to collect your responses to questions or activities aligned with the content in Career Success. Save the High School Career Portfolio for your records and as a reminder or motivator of your goals, interests, and intentions.

At any time, you can access online tools and other publications and resources from the Texas Workforce Commission by accessing our website at lmci.state.tx.us. Use these resources to complete career assessments, career exploration, and career research to complete the activities in this document or to simply collect the information needed to fill in the blanks of this Career Portfolio (CP). It has been made into a fully interactive and digital document so that you can answer questions or complete sections and save the information, return to it to add more information, and change answers at a later date.

If you do not have access to Wi-Fi or a computer, call our automated, 24-hour Career Hotline at 1-800-822-7526. Leave your name, physical address, and up to three occupations you are interested in learning more about. We will do the research for you, then mail you a copy of an Occupation Summary report for each of the jobs. You can use these reports to complete the activities and data collection portions of this CP. Though you can only ask about 3 career titles when you call, you can call us as many times as you need to get the information you want. Therefore, if you ever change your mind about your careers of interest, you still have our help at your fingertips.

We hope you not only enjoy using this High School Career Portfolio and the activities included within it, but we hope you also find it to be useful for your career and after-high school exploration and planning.

MY PLAN: JOSEPHINA

Hi, my name is Josephina. After I graduate from high school, I plan to go to Texas State Technical College in West Texas. I spoke to my counselor and we decided that since I want to be a paramedic, TSTC would be a good choice. I'll be able to live at home and commute to school. That means I can save money to pay for school or a car. We'll see. I'm a little worried because I only took three science classes during high school, but I am prepared to take a few pre-requisite classes in my first year of community college to catch up if I need to. Rate this plan from 1 star (needs work) to 5 stars (success) and explain why you picked this rating. Choose only one rating.

_____ 1 Star _____ 2 Stars _____ 3 Stars _____ 4 Stars _____ 5 Stars

Why did you give Josephina this rating? Fill in the blank.

MY PLAN: AMIRA

Hi, my name is Amira and I plan to go to college. I'm not sure which college I'm going to enroll in, or what will be my major. I haven't found something I like, so I hope it comes to me soon. I graduate from high school in two years. If all else fails, I'll pick a university where most of my friends will attend to go there. Then after taking some classes, I'm sure I'll be able to pick a major.

Rate this plan from 1 star (needs work) to 5 stars (success) and explain why you picked this rating.

_____ 1 Star _____ 2 Stars _____ 3 Stars _____ 4 Stars _____ 5 Stars

Why did you give Amira this rating? Fill in the blank.

EDUCATION AND MONEY—CONNECTION

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, high school dropouts earn the lowest wages and make up the highest percentage of unemployment on average, in comparison to others with a high school diploma or higher attainment of education. In fact, check out the following statistics:

In the United States in 2019, individuals aged 25 and older without a high school diploma had an unemployment rate of 5.4% and earned an average of $592 a week. High school graduates at the same time had an unemployment rate of 3.7% and earned an average of $746 a week. For those with an Associate degree (about 2 years of college training after high school) their unemployment rate was only 2.7% and they earned an average of $887 a week. As the levels of education increase, the unemployment rates continue to drop while the weekly earnings increase.

Consider how dropping out may seem appealing to solve problems in the short-term or immediate situation, while in the long-term your earning potential and opportunities to have work will increase if you complete your high school journey and push yourself to earn education or training credentials beyond high school. With this in mind, let's explore some other options that may be more beneficial for you.

What might be some better solutions? Choose all of the options that interest you:

- | | |
|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Attending a different school | <input type="checkbox"/> Graduating, but doing it quickly |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Enrolling in an online school | <input type="checkbox"/> Having a mentor who can advise me |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Getting a job, doing school part time | <input type="checkbox"/> Living somewhere else |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Getting my GED instead of a diploma | <input type="checkbox"/> Taking more interesting classes |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Going to night school | <input type="checkbox"/> Taking Summer classes to finish early |

If you checked any of the above options, visit your school counselor to discuss the options available to you regarding dropout prevention.

GO SHOPPING WITH TEXAS REALITY CHECK

WILL YOUR PREFERRED JOB SUPPORT THE LIFESTYLE YOU WANT?

Consider these three basic questions

1. What kind of lifestyle do I want for myself?
2. How much will that lifestyle cost me?
3. What jobs both interest me and pay for the lifestyle I want?

Visit the TWC's Texas Reality Check tool by going to TexasRealityCheck.com. Think about these questions as you complete the steps below and fill in the blanks with information collected using the website.

1. What Texas city did you select to live in?

2. Evaluate your total monthly expenses.
3. Email the results to yourself for future use.
4. Find the Minimum Salary for your life in the city of your choice. It is located on the right side under the red bar. What is your minimum required salary?

5. Based on your brainstorming about your desired career/occupation, can you afford the lifestyle choices you made? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Select the GREEN Explore Occupations bar. You will see all the careers that pay the minimum salary required for your lifestyle choices. Scroll through them. You can also use the drop-down boxes at the top of the page to filter the results. Select one occupation that you feel would be a good choice for you.

Double click on your occupation selection. Using the information provided on that page complete the following questions. Fill in the blanks.:

Occupation Title: _____

Annual Salary: _____

Hourly Wage: _____

Summary of job description:

What is the education attainment method of entry for this occupation? Choose any that apply.

_____ Certification/License

_____ Master's Degree

_____ Associates Degree

_____ Professional Degree

_____ Bachelor's Degree

_____ Other

Based on the Labor Market Information available here, fill in the blanks.:

- The percentage change in the number of jobs available from 2016-2026: _____
- Did the number increase or decrease? _____
- By what percentage? _____
- How many annual average job openings are there? _____
- How many average openings are there per year, due to growth? _____

If you would like more information about this occupation including job skills, working conditions, licensing, certifications and more, click on the “Review ...at Texas Career Check” on the right side of your screen next to the “Labor Market Information” box.

MY PLAN: TERRENCE

Hi, my name is Terrence, and my plan is to become a video game designer. I've done some research and found out that Texas is second in the nation in video game employment. Right now, I have to decide between a four-year or a two-year college. Obviously, the four-year school will cost more and take longer. I want to make sure I pick the right school. I have an appointment to talk with my guidance counselor—hopefully she will point me in the right direction.

Rate this plan from 1 star (needs work) to 5 stars (success) and explain why you picked this rating. Choose only one.

_____ 1 Star _____ 2 Stars _____ 3 Stars _____ 4 Stars _____ 5 Stars

Why did you give Terrence this rating? Fill in the blank.

THINK BEFORE YOU POST ONLINE

Do you use any social media sites and/or apps? Choose one. _____ Yes _____ No

Is your profile currently set to be viewed by the public, or a private setting? Choose one.

_____ Public _____ Private

Have you ever posted any of the following kinds of posts? Choose all that apply:

- | | |
|--|---|
| _____ Any criminal behavior | _____ Posting provocative photos |
| _____ Boasting about drinking or drug use | _____ Sharing confidential information |
| _____ Gossiping about others | _____ Speaking badly about others |
| _____ Lying about skills or talents you have | _____ Using a lot of inappropriate language |
| _____ Lying about things you have been doing | _____ Using unprofessional profile names |

If you checked any of the boxes above, you might want to reconsider what you have been posting in your social media account. Remember, that future college or career recruiters and hiring managers may be able to see your social media history and use this as a means to decide to accept your admission request to their campus or offer you a job. How you present yourself now matters in the future too.

Step 2: Understand

To discover the best occupation to fit your future, you need to do some work to learn more about yourself. Answer the following questions to start this self-discovery journey. Continue to the next page for an activity.

CAREER WEB ACTIVITY:

Let's take a minute to explore the large variation of jobs available within different industries or those with a common goal.

Pick up an item sitting close to you right now. Any item will do. Your phone, a pen, a textbook, or even a banana. Set it aside as we will use it in a minute.

It took many different people, in many different careers, with a lot of different skills and knowledge in order to create the item you just listed. Consider all of the occupations, skills, and knowledge it would take to not only idealize, but to create this item, and get it into the hands of consumers like you.

For example, think about your favorite string cheese. There is a farmer who raises the cows from which the milk is sourced. Factory owners acquire that milk, which is turned into string cheese by the factory workers, then the cheese is packaged in the factory as well. Next, truck drivers take the packaged product to different retail stores. Finally, there are retail store workers who stock and sell the string cheese to you. Many of these careers rely on each other to ultimately get the product to you.

Now grab the item you selected a few minutes ago and complete the following steps:

Write down the name of your item here. Fill in the blank.:

Brainstorm the job title(s) that would be appropriate for the following tasks:

Who designs the item? Fill in the blanks.

MY PLAN: JAEDA

Hi, my name is Jaeda and my plan is to become a chef. My uncle has his own restaurant and I work there during the summer. I have learned it's a lot of fun, but also a lot of work. I did some research and in order to become a successful chef, I will go to school for two years, then hopefully become an apprentice at a nice restaurant. One thing about being a chef is that there will always be work—people have to eat! My opportunities are endless; I could become a White House chef, host my own cooking show or open up my own restaurant.

Rate this plan from 1 star (needs work) to 5 stars (success) and explain why you picked this rating. Choose one.

MY PLAN: CESAR

Hi, my name is Cesar, and my plan is to go to Dallas Community College. I chose a two-year school because I'm the first in my family to go to college. I want to take my basics and get an associate degree in emergency medical services. I spoke with my high school counselor and the DCC college counselor, and they told me that after I graduate, I could either try to get a job or transfer to a four-year school. Since I will be the first in my family to attend college, I can still get the education I want while making sure I can succeed.

MY PLAN: JONATHAN

Hi, my name is Jonathan, and I love football. I want to be the next Tom Brady—he’s won the most Super Bowls of any player! I can accomplish anything if I work hard, do well in school, and have a backup plan (just in case I suffer a career-ending injury during my historic football run). I decided in 8th grade to pursue the Business and Industry endorsement in high school. Then I can major in Business in college while I’m quarterbacking at a D1 university. If I get injured, then I’ll get an MBA and start a steel manufacturing business.

Rate this plan from 1 star (needs work) to 5 stars (success) and explain why you picked this rating. Choose one.

UNDERSTANDING FINANCIAL AID

Do you believe any of the following? Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No My parents/family earn too much money to apply for financial aid.

 Yes No My grades aren't good enough to get financial aid.

_____Yes _____No I won't be selected for a scholarship.

_____Yes _____No Other limiting beliefs which would affect your chances of getting aid

Many students do not apply for financial aid for these and other reasons, simply because they do not understand how it works. Don't fall into that trap. You should always try to earn financial aid because every scholarship has different requirements and criteria, and you might be surprised at both what is available and what you qualify for.

In the meantime, the following are all possible sources of money to pay for your education or training beyond high school. Check off all those in the following list that you have invested, in as well as those you would be willing to explore more about or tap into for assistance. For any items that are unfamiliar, read more about them in the Career Success workbook.

_____ Part-time work while I attend school (both high school and beyond)

_____ Financial assistance from parents (if they can contribute)

_____ Educational or workforce training grants

_____ Educational or workforce training scholarships

_____ Work-study program while enrolled in college

_____ Student loans

_____ Tuition reimbursement through an employer (Be sure to research if your employer does this.)

_____ Other option. Fill in the blank.: _____

Have you completed your FAFSA? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Want more help with learning how to manage your money? Check out the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas' financial literacy resource called Building Wealth.

Additionally, the following are some great resources to look into for help finding money to pay for college, and some of them you can start taking advantage of while still in high school. For any items that are unfamiliar, read more about them in the Career Success workbook. Check off those that you plan to investigate more thoroughly:

_____ Advanced placement courses

_____ Dual credit courses

- _____ College/University financial aid offices
- _____ Institutional scholarships
- _____ Special programs/Grants
- _____ Community & National organization funds
- _____ Business firms/ Unions/ Ex-Military financial programs
- _____ Military service
- _____ Student loans

GOING TO COLLEGE? YOU PROBABLY NEED A JOB

Because a college education can be so expensive, many college students find themselves working part-time while attending school.

List any interests/passions: _____

List any known skills: _____

Now you can put all of this information together into a single document in a format that looks professional and easy to read. Feel free to Google search examples of professional resumes and select a format you would like to copy. Do your best to replicate that document.

Once you have found job postings you want to apply for, you will need to provide your resume along with any job applications. However, before you provide your resume to any employers, you want to make sure the resume specifically complements the job postings you are responding to. Take a close look at the job posting and collect the following information. Use a separate sheet of paper for any additional postings you need to record information for.

Continue to the next page for the activity.

POSTING #1

Fill in the blanks.

Name of Employer: _____

Position posted: _____

What skills are listed in the posting as required? _____

What skills are listed in the posting as preferred? _____

What additional skills do you have that would be a good fit for this job? _____

What licenses/ certifications/ specialized training do you have that would be useful in this role? _____

Once you complete your resume, answer the following questions before sharing it with the employer who posted this position. Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No Did I tailor my resume to match the skills for this job posting?

_____ Yes _____ No Does the language in my resume match the posting exactly?

_____ Yes _____ No Are the skills I included in my resume accurate and things I can do?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I save this resume so I can use it again for similar postings?

POSTING #2

Fill in the blanks.

Name of Employer: _____

POSTING #3

Fill in the blanks.

Name of Employer: _____

Position posted: _____

What skills are listed in the posting as required? _____

What skills are listed in the posting as preferred? _____

What additional skills do you have that would be a good fit for this job? _____

What licenses/ certifications/ specialized training do you have that would be useful in this role? _____

Once you complete your resume, answer the following questions before sharing it with the employer who posted this position. Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No Did I tailor my resume to match the skills for this job posting?

_____ Yes _____ No Does the language in my resume match the posting exactly?

_____ Yes _____ No Are the skills I included in my resume accurate and things I can do?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I save this resume so I can use it again for similar postings?

If you are applying for your first job, you may be worried about your lack of experience and skills to include in a resume, but there are some experiences you can definitely include, such as:

- Volunteering/Community Service: A description of any community service activities, volunteer or pro bono work you have completed, especially as it relates to your career.
- Babysitting: If you have spent time caring for your younger siblings or neighborhood children, you have also built some useful skills doing so.
- Yard work: Any tasks you have completed in caring for the lawn of your own family, or others (especially if you were paid to do so), can also be included as work experience.
- Any daily/weekly chores: any activities you completed after having been trained/taught to do them can be useful to employers. For example, if your parent or guardian taught you how to properly chop vegetables or cook some simple recipes, this could translate well for a job at a fast-food establishment or restaurant.
- School projects: Have you completed any interesting school projects or research papers whose completion, or information obtained, may be beneficial to this employer or position? If so, it is safe to include in a resume.
- Accomplishments: If you have earned any specific accomplishments or awards that required skills or knowledge applicable to the position you are applying for, include those in your resume as well.

There are additional resources you can use (or you might need) when you begin applying for job postings. For example:

- Testimonials and Letters of Recommendations: A collection of any kudos you have received — from teachers, trusted adults, school club Advisors, past employers, etc. Some experts even suggest including copies of favorable school or previous work evaluations and reviews.
- References List: A list of three to five people (including full names, titles, addresses, and phone/email) who are willing to speak about your strengths, abilities, and provide examples of the skills you have used and your ability to perform the job you are applying for.

PRACTICE WRITING A RESUME: PART TWO

Now that you know what a sample resume looks like and you have collected information about your own skills, talents, and interests, use the same resume format you picked to complete the first part of this exercise and build your own resume.

Your resume can use the following headings if you prefer to build your resume format from scratch. Just remember that when you are done, your resume should still look professional.

ACE THE INTERVIEW

After getting your resume in shape so it is ready to distribute (and appropriate for each individual posting) it is time to start thinking about preparing to ace the interview. Here are a few things you can do before, during, and after your interview. Review each list and check off all the ones you have completed every time you are working on preparing for an upcoming job interview.

THINGS TO DO BEFORE YOU INTERVIEW:

_____ Identify an appropriate outfit to wear and set it aside for this specific use

_____ Practice answering some common job interview questions with a trusted person

_____ Research as much as you can about the company and the role they have posted

_____ Collect some questions you would like to ask the interviewers about the role or company

_____ If you do not drive, have you set up a ride to, and from, your interview

_____ Estimate out how long it will take for you to drive to interview to ensure you are on time

_____ Consider your current school schedule/demands to ensure you can commit to a work schedule

_____ Be able to describe your skills that align with the needs of the job posting

_____ Be able to describe why you might be the best candidate for this position

_____ Be able to describe your strengths which would be most relevant to the position

_____ Be able to identify one of your weaknesses and turn it into a positive

_____ Ensure you have a current photo ID/ Driver's license in case you are offered the position

_____ Ensure you also have a copy of your birth certificate, passport, or military ID

Now answer these questions about your selected interview outfit. Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No Does my outfit include shorts, a tank top, or a crop top?

_____ Yes _____ No Are any of the items of this outfit too big/baggy or too tight?

_____ Yes _____ No Have I put on excess makeup or perfume/cologne?

_____ Yes _____ No Does my outfit look professional?

If you responded, YES to the first three questions, or NO to the final question, go back and determine what you can do for a more positive result.

WHAT YOU CAN DO DURING AN INTERVIEW

Check all that apply.

_____ Arrive 5-10 minutes early so you can calm yourself down before interviewing

_____ Turn your cell phone off or set to airplane mode

_____ Throw away any gum/candy you may be chewing before entering the interview space

_____ Use your manners when meeting and talking to new people

_____ Shake the hand of the person/people who will be interviewing you

_____ Wait to sit until you are invited to do so, and pay attention to where you are asked to sit

_____ Sit up straight and be sure to make eye contact with your interviewers often

_____ Speak clearly and be sure to stay on topic

_____ Be as positive as possible when answering all questions

_____ Thank the person who interviewed you when it comes to an end

_____ Be sure to shake hands again with everyone who interviewed you as you leave

Now answer these questions. Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No Did anyone else come to the interview with me?

_____ Yes _____ No Was I dressed inappropriately for the interview?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I arrive later for the interview?

_____ Yes _____ No Did my cell phone ring or make any disruptive sounds?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I use slang/words that my interviewer didn't understand?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I sound nervous or rushed in any of my answers?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I ask inappropriate or unpracticed questions?

_____ Yes _____ No Did I commit to a work schedule I may not be able to stick to?

If you responded, YES to any of these questions, go back to the question and determine what you can do next time to ensure a more positive outcome or interview experience.

Continue to the next page for another activity.

ACTIONS TO TAKE WHEN THE INTERVIEW IS OVER:

- _____ Send a follow up email or note thanking the interviewer for the opportunity
- _____ Express your continued interest in the position
- _____ If you are aware of a potential timeline, follow up with interviewer if you haven't heard from them

THEY OFFERED YOU THE JOB! HERE IS WHAT YOU NEED

Now is the time to make sure you have a current form of ID and proof of citizenship and your ability to work in the US so that you can complete all of the necessary paperwork you will need to in order to be offered (and accept) the position.

If you need a replacement copy of these documents, use the following links:

Visit DPS's website to get information for a driver's license or state ID.

Visit the Social Security Administration's website to get information for a social security card.

PLAN ON BEING A TEAM PLAYER

Being able to work well on a team is a skill that most employers are looking for in their employees. There are also many other "soft skills" employers are eager to find in their staff. To learn more about these skills and how they are critical for your success in the workplace, go to the publications page of the LMCI website and take a look at our Soft Skills workbook, or visit the Skills to Pay the Bills website from the U.S. Department of Labor to watch their soft skill videos.

Review the following list of skills and check off all those which you think you do well. For those you do not select, reflect on how you can incorporate practicing these skills more often in your day-to-day routines so that you can perfect this talent as well.

- _____ Teamwork
- _____ Communication (speaking)

_____ Communication (written—both formal and informal written communication)

_____ Communication (body language and approachability)

_____ Flexibility

_____ Compromise

_____ Accountability

_____ Organization

DO YOU HAVE A BACKUP PLAN?

This resource (paired with the Career Success Workbook) has helped you pair down your options to some of the occupations that you are most interested in pursuing later. Though you may be inclined to keep information on only the one job title that tops your list, we recommend you keep the information you collect on all of the occupations you research so that you have back up plan in place.

Take a look at your top three careers of interest. Using Texas Career Check, take a look at the career cluster in which this occupation is categorized. Now browse through other options that are found within the same career cluster and write down a few other jobs that you may be interested in. Fill in the blanks.

Step 6: Reflect

SO WHAT IS YOUR PLAN?:

Now that you have gone through the work of researching and selecting careers and post high school education and training experiences you are interested in; you can take the time to evaluate those decisions.

Write down your top three career and post high school education and training preferences. Fill in the blanks.

Top Career Interests:

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

Top post high school experience interests:

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

Now answer the following questions. Choose one.

_____ Yes _____ No Are you satisfied with your selections?

_____ Yes _____ No Are all of your options doable and attainable?

_____ Yes _____ No Will your interests allow you to accomplish your personal goals?

_____ Yes _____ No Will your interests allow you to feel fulfilled in life?

If you answered NO to any of the questions above, now is the time to go back and reconsider the choices you made in previous steps to see where you can make different decisions that are more aligned with your personal goals and interests.

Also know that if you return to this portfolio a year or more down the road, you may have completely different interests and goals than what you collect here. That is OK, and actually pretty normal. Just know you can repeat the previous steps as many times as you want to, whenever you want to, to explore your options as your interests change.

RATE/IMPROVE THEIR PLANS

Throughout this workbook, you have seen several student's plans included and were asked to rate those plans. Let's take a look at how we rated those plans and ponder some additional questions or activities you can complete to problem solve some of the issues with these plans. Learning how to problem solve these issues can be greatly beneficial for your own experience as well.

KOJI'S PLAN

Koji knows what career he wants and has taken steps to make sure it happens. He has talked to his parents and contacted a military recruiter. He has investigated his career path and knows what will be required. The only other thing Koji may want to investigate is possible career opportunities if he chooses to leave the military once he has fulfilled his service commitments.

We rated this plan: 5 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Activity for Koji's plan:

Koji mentioned that he didn't know there were so many other Air Force jobs besides being a pilot. Put yourself in Koji's shoes and go to TexasCareerCheck.com to see just how many Air Force occupation titles there are and browse the other branches while you're there.

JOSEPHINA'S PLAN

Although Josephina only began to plan her last semester in high school, she has spoken with her counselor, selected a career direction (paramedic), selected a college (TSTC) and started to think of how she will pay for her education. Had she done these things a few years earlier she would have known which classes would better prepare her. In addition, she could have received scholarships or grants earlier to help her pay for college expenses. She still can, by the way, apply for these.

We rated this plan: 3 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Question about Josephina's plan:

What can Josephina do to look for financial aid? Where should she look for resources? Fill in the blank.

JONATHAN'S PLAN

Jonathan has got his stuff together. He's aiming high and going after a career in a competitive field doing something he loves. He's taking his dad's advice and "not putting all his eggs in one basket," in other words, he is pursuing a backup plan by getting a solid education in business at a four-year university, and keeping his options open for postgraduate studies and starting his own business. As long as he plans to eat healthily and get lots of rest to avoid burning himself out, he's on the right track here.

We rated this plan: 5 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Continue the activity on the next page.

Question about Jonathan's plan:

If you were going to aim high, what dream would you chase? If you have to have a backup plan, what would it be? Fill in the blank.

AMIRA'S PLAN

Amira has been in high school for two years and it is okay for her to be unsure at this point of a career direction. But having an undeclared major or randomly taking courses in college is not an effective path to success. During the next two years, she can use tools like Texas Career Check's Interest Profiler (see page 13) to find what careers interest her. Amira can then look for appropriate schools or training programs. A good start may be the publication Beyond High School available from the Texas Workforce Commission website. (If you need a digitally accessible version, download our Microsoft Word version.) Simply going to college because her friends will be going will not help Amira find her own career success.

We rated this plan: 2 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. ☐ Yes ☐ No

Questions about Amira's plan:

Is Amira's fallback plan to attend a college that friends have chosen based on emotion or logic?

Choose one. ☐ Emotion ☐ Logic

How could Amira take a more logical approach to picking what college she will attend? Fill in the blank.

CESAR'S PLAN

Cesar is the first in his family to go to college. While a two-year school is a good option because it will let him finish his studies quickly and get a job, or allow him to continue his education, he should not feel like a two-year school is his only option at all. If he wants to, he should absolutely pursue a four-year school or university. Either way, to help him succeed, Cesar should ask his college counselor about programs for transitioning from high school to college that can help him learn how to combine academics and campus life.

We rated this plan: 4 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. ☐ Yes ☐ No

Question about Cesar's plan:

How can Cesar's parents and/or other family help him even though they haven't been to college yet? Fill in the blank.

TERRENCE'S PLAN

Terrence is smart to look at the differences in four-year and two-year schools for the occupation of video game designer. Terrence should get as much information as possible and ask family and friends if they know anyone who works at a video game company. He should also look for video game companies at career fairs and try to secure an internship.

We rated this plan: 4 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Question about Terrence's plan:

What other occupations are available in the video game industry? What kind of education or training are needed for these other occupations? Fill in the blanks.

Other occupations:

JAEDA’S PLAN

Jaeda is definitely on track to becoming a chef. She has work experience so she knows what type of work will be required. She has investigated the educational requirements and is open to the different opportunities that will be available after her education is completed. Jaeda should now talk to her counselor to find out what financial aid is available to help her pay for her education.

We rated this plan: 5 Stars

Did your rating match ours? Choose one. _____Yes _____No

Activity for Jaeda’s plan:

Name as many occupations as you can think of that could be in a restaurant. How many require specialized skills and training? Fill in the blank.

END OF THE BOOK BUT NOT THE END OF YOUR SEARCH

Congratulations! You’ve made it to the end of the workbook, but don’t stop here. The career goals you may have decided on today could change in a few years. If that happens, just revisit this workbook for a tried-and-true method of exploration, research, and decision-making to help you discover new occupation opportunities. That’s the best thing about the workbook apart from its processes and content — it can be revisited and reused as often as and whenever you need it — so come back to it anytime!

Make sure to continue your research and exploration using resources from the Texas Workforce Commission, such as Texas Reality Check and Texas Career Check. They are always free to use, and data in these tools is regularly updated, so they will always provide current and relevant information.
